

ALICE THAW, ONCE COUNTRESS, TO LIVE HERE PERMANENTLY

Former Wife of English Nobleman Buys Old Fuller Home.

Mrs. Copley Thaw, formerly Miss Alice Thaw, Countess of Yarmouth, has purchased one of the oldest houses in the oldest fashionable section of the city, the former home of the late Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Fuller, at the northwest corner of Eighteenth and F streets northwest, and will become a permanent resident of the Capital beginning next fall.

Mrs. Thaw has just purchased the house for $50,000. She will remodel it extensively and make it her future home. The sale was made through the office of Horace H. Westcott.

Massive House.
The Fuller house is a large four-story red brick residence of severe plainness, but of massive proportions. It stands on the terrace at the corner and its garden is surrounded by a high red brick wall surrounding the terrace, so that a view of the grounds is entirely shut off from the street. Over the wall climb vines in wild profusion, and extending themselves up the side of the house itself. The entrance to the garden, on Eighteenth street, is guarded by a nine-foot solid wood gate, along the top of which are ugly spikes. The whole surrounding suggests the desire of the original builders to have strict privacy.

The house long has been connected with officials of the Supreme Court. Justice Fuller bought about 1857 from the Carroll estate. William Thomas Carroll, clerk of the Supreme Court before the civil war, is still remembered by old residents for his elaborate and brilliant entertaining at the old mansion. While the house is not of colonial or revolutionary days, it is in the midst of fine residences of those periods, and is a very old one itself, and is the best preserved of all.

May Change It.
It is not yet known what alterations Mrs. Thaw has planned for the house, but it is of such substantial character that the changes will probably be toward making it less forbidding in exterior and in interior changes to meet the ideas of the new owner.

Mrs. Thaw formerly was a resident of Washington for a part of each year. With her mother, Mrs. William Thaw, she lived at the old residence opposite Lafayette Park, now the home of the Commercial Club. It was the site of the courtship of the late Chief Justice, and she will move into it in the fall.

Doctor Offers to Hang to Save Condemned Woman

ASHTABULA, Ohio, June 23.—If for any reason S. B. Whitney, of Clinton, Ill., should be prevented from carrying out his offer to be hanged in place of Mrs. Angeline Napolitano, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, who is under death sentence for the murder of her husband, Dr. Alexander Aalto, of this city, announced today that he will offer himself as a substitute. Aalto, who is a middle-aged bachelor, has taken up the fight here to get a commutation for Mrs. Napolitano, who shortly will become a mother.

Chicago Police Seeking Car in Bomb Mystery

CHICAGO, June 23.—Following the firing of the sixth bomb directed against the Commonwealth Edison Company here shortly before midnight the police today started a search for a gray practice car, which was seen leaving the scene of the explosion. The bomb destroyed a manhole at East Ninety-fifth street and Woodlawn avenue, crossing electric wires and shattering a conduit.

IN MEMORIAM

NEWTON.—In memory of RAYMOND NEWTON, who departed this life June 23, seven years ago today.

In a far-off distant graveyard, Where the trees their branches wave, Lies our beloved Raymond.

Thou art cold and silent grave, The eyes are closed that looked on life, Through mist of pain and tears, To smiles through endless years.

Mourn not for him, oh! lonely hearts, But for yourselves be sad. To you is left the bitterness, To him all things are glad.

Raymond, could you speak to us And could you live again, Our aching hearts would then be healed, But this we wish in vain.

BY HIS MOTHER AND SISTERS.

FAMED DETECTOR OF SHORT WEIGHTS VISITING CAPITAL

"Issy" Wulfson, of Indianapolis, Calls on Col. Haskell, Inspector Here.

Isidor Wulfson, inspector of weights and measures of Indianapolis and known all over the Middle West as "Old Sleuth," "Issy" and just "Issy" is in Washington. Mr. Wulfson is making a tour of the Eastern cities for the purpose of comparing their methods for guaranteeing full weight to consumers with his own, and dropped off in Washington to visit the Bureau of Standards and Col. W. C. Haskell, superintendent of weights and measures.

For Colonel Haskell, Mr. Wulfson has nothing but praise. He has made a tour of the markets and stores, and said today that he is convinced that Washington buyers are getting pretty nearly all that is coming to them.

In his own city Mr. Wulfson adopts unique measures for enforcing the law. Convinced that purchasers at the hay market were not getting a square deal, Mr. Wulfson disguised himself as a farmer and made a personal inspection of the scales and methods of weighing.

Single handed and alone, Inspector Wulfson won a fight against the Standard Oil trust in Indianapolis. The great octopus was fined $10 and costs for selling short measure.

STATE DEPARTMENT PLANNING BIG TIME FOR ADMIRAL TOGO

Appropriation by Congress to Pay Expenses Expected.

How to show Admiral Togo a high old time is a pleasant problem the State Department officials are boasting today. It is expected the House tomorrow will adopt a resolution giving $10,000 for the famous Japanese hero's reception in Washington, and all the State Department has to do is to plan to spend it, without fear of the Democratic inquisitorial committee.

It was said at the State Department today that some of the best in the service were planning how to make Admiral Togo glad he came. A Presidential reception, little rides in automobiles, dinners, and smokers, will be in the reception.

Admiral Togo will come to the United States from the coronation ceremonies in London. He will sail from Liverpool July 29 and will arrive in New York August 4. He will visit Washington, Philadelphia, Niagara Falls and several large cities of the West, sailing from Vancouver, British Columbia, seventeen days after his arrival.

Wife of Senator Lea Now Is Out of Danger

Mrs. Luke Lea, wife of Senator Lea of Tennessee, was so greatly improved today at Georgetown Hospital, that physicians declared her "entirely out of danger." Senator Lea now is practically fully restored to health, but he remained at the hospital again today.

Compound Callouses Tells Splendid Cure for Them And All Foot Troubles

A compound callous is the secondary stage when it grows inward and presses on the nerves, causing intense pain. Callouses never cure themselves but always get worse, sometimes irritating the whole nervous system.

The following is a most effective and speedy cure. "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide in a basin of hot water. Soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently massaging the sore parts. (Less time will not give the desired results.) The soreness will disappear immediately and the callous can be easily peeled off. Repeat this for several nights. A little olive oil rubbed into skin is very beneficial."

This Calocide is a very remarkable preparation for all foot ailments. Bunions, corns and ingrown nails get instant relief and are soon cured. Bad smelling and sore feet need but a few treatments. Calocide is no longer confined to doctor's use. Any druggist has it in stock or will quickly get it from his wholesale house. A twenty-five cent package is usually enough to put the worst feet in fine condition. It will prove a blessing to persons who have been vainly trying ineffectual tablets and foot powders.

Policeman and Bride Leave on Honeymoon

Policeman Harry B. Taylor, of the Ninth precinct, and his bride, who was Miss Martha Luskey, are today on their way to Boston, where they will spend part of their honeymoon. They will stop at Atlantic City and Philadelphia on their way back to Washington.

The marriage took place yesterday at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Matilda Luskey, the Rev. Dr. Cogswell, of All Saints' Church, Benning, officiating. Miss Della Luskey was the bride's only attendant, and Lamont J. Merchant acted as best man for Mr. Taylor.

Upon their return to Washington the couple will make their home at the Penhurst apartment house.
